*The Complete Home Care Therapy Webinar Series
Three Great Trainings... One Low Price*

With Home Health PPS 2012 just around the corner, it is essential that agencies solidify their therapy practices now so they are better positioned for the changes. Join us for a three part webinar session designed to help agencies strengthen their therapy practices while easing the transition into the new year.

To Bill or Not to Bill: Handling Missed Reassessments

Even with thorough preparation, therapy reassessments are sometimes missed. There is a learning curve for both clinicians and agencies and, as with anything new, mistakes have been made. The implications for billing are significant yet have lacked clarity. No agency wants to lose earned revenue in error. This session will examine the clinical and billing issues surrounding missed therapy reassessments and provide specific strategies to decrease risk going forward.

They're Back: Connecting Therapy to Outcomes and Process Measures

The long anticipated Outcome measures utilizing OASIS-C data return this summer. After 18 months of silence on a national level, agencies will be able to once again determine how they measure up to other agencies in an accurate risk adjusted model. This session will connect therapy practice to Outcomes measures, positioning these important services to the larger issue of value based purchasing where quality is key.

Medication Management and the Home Health Therapist

CMS has used the words "more than capable" with regard to therapy participation in drug regimen review. Yet, the issue of therapists and medications has lacked clarity and sparked much debate. Back by popular demand, this session will address the expectations of therapist involvement, explore the implications on care planning, and discuss specific concerns that have been raised on both sides of this issue.
